I went deep into this in my book → <https://amzn.to/4kIHtuP>

It's about breaking free from wage slavery and creating a life on your own terms.

I wake up when I don't want to. I spend 8-9 hours a day doing something I don't want to do. I spend the rest of the day eating and preparing myself for the next day and sleeping. And it goes on and on. It doesn't matter if I'm an office worker or a construction worker or a plumber. It doesn't matter if I lived in Italy, Hungary, the US or Spain. It doesn't matter if speak 4 languages fluently. It doesn't matter if I had 2 years experience or if I have 20 years of experience now. I can barely stay afloat. I was better off financially 20 y ago age 20. It is very disappointing. Upsetting. Depressing. Tiring. Outraging.

Kafka said: "People don't want freedom; they want permission for their chains". And Dostoevsky said: "Yes, because slavery with comfort feels safer than liberty with responsibility".

In America the 8 hour work day, 5 days a week almost doesn't exist. It's more like, 12 hour work day, 6 days or more per week plus mandatory overtime. In America, slavery never was abolished, just relabeled. Anyone connected to the government is not trustworthy. Intuition is your best friend.

Our grandparents traded 40 hours a week for a secure lifestyle with a nice big house, 2 cars in the garage, and several well-cared-for children. We trade 60 hours a week for food.

Take away someone's ability to survive on their own...
You never need chains again.
Just offer a paycheck.

There are too many of us who have played within the system and beat it. Now they want to close all of those loopholes (property ownership, small business ownership, etc.) My dad says with all the power and money they have, they are still jealous of our ingenuity and our tenacity, so now they want to eliminate our ability to think for ourselves at all.

After five years out of the rat race, I simply don't work for anyone else. I produce my own food and olive oil, even bake my own bread, I've never worked harder physically, but at the end of the day, it's all mine. It's fresh, and it comes with zero exploitation and zero stress. For now, the trade-off is absolutely worth it. The future is unknown... but for now, it's the best decision I've ever made.

I love someone finally talking about this. I hate when people conflate Work and Labor. Whenever I say modern work sucks, some pompous butthead says, "He who does not work does not eat", as if that bible verse was referring to an evening shift at McDonald's, and not about spreading the burden of foraging and self-sufficiency.

Most people are still living in a system built to control them.
It started in England 250 years ago.
And the cage has only gotten smarter.
